spectators became displeased with the performance of the toreadors, claiming that they were not doing their best, that they were cowardly and simply making a weak pretense of fighting the bulls. Finally matters became so warm that the spectators, not content with hooting and yelling at the bull-tighters and the bulls, arose from their seats, broke into the arena and chased the toreadors and toros out of it, tore down the seats, piled them in heaps and eventually eet fire to the debris, threatening the destruction of the whole building. At this stage of the proceedings a strong force of police came upon the scene, baving been hastily summoned from all available posts. The officers of the law. with drawn swords, cleared the circus and put out the fires, not, however, before the building was partially destroyed. A number of arrests were made by the police and the local authorities and proprietors of the circus announce their intention of prosecuting the rioters to the utmost extent of the law.

Was Not Assassinated. NEW YORK, Sept. 22.-The Herald has cable from San Salvador: "The reports about the assassination of Gen. Luis Bogran, President of Honduras, are utterly false. They, and other rumors of a similar character, are propagated by Guatemalan agents, with a view to dis crediting the Saivadorian government and manufacturing public opinion against it."

Discussing Causes of Accidents to Toilers. BERNE, Sept. 21 .- The international congress called to discuss the causes of accidents to workmen, the employer's liability in such cases and the best means to be taken to prevent such accidents opened here to-day. Among the delegates who have arrived are four Americans. M. Droz, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the government of Switzerland. During the course of his address M. Droz said that he hoped the deliberations of the congress would result in an improvement in the existence of the working people throughout the

M. Gruner, secretary of the executive commit-tee, read a report to-day advising the creation, in every country, of a labor bureau similar to the one in existance in the United States. M. Bodenheimer, an ex-member of the Berne state council, read a paper on the German state in-surance laws from 1883 to 1889. He said that a quarter of the whole population of Germany was insured against infirmity. Employers contributed £5,000,000 annually. The fixing of indemnities originated much contention. In 1890 14.879 out of 50,175 decisions were appealed against in the arbitration courts. M. Bodenheimer declined to express an opinion whether the disadvantages of the system outweighed the advantages. He affirmed the necessity of consolidating and simplifying the administration in order to secure greater harmony.

Annexation Feeling in Hawail.

LONDON. Sept. 19 .- Advices from Hawaii state that there is no present danger of a revolution in that country, although the resources and temper of the people are undergoing a severe test, owing to the low price of sugar, and there is some talk, although not definite, of a republic or annexation to the United States. The Queen is personally popular, a fact which has a tendency to keep down discontent, and it is possible that any fundamental change in the system of government will be deferred until after her death. Nevertheless some foreign residents think that a crisis may come at any time.

Americans are not alone in favoring annexation to the Umted States, many of the natives being of the same view.

The Congo for Convicts.

LONDON, Sept. 11 .- The Belgian government is considering seriously the suggestions of the Catholic congress at Malines that the Congo State be used as a penitentiary colony. Owing to the small Belgian emigration to the Congo it is feared that the administration of the Congo State will inevitably slip out of Belgian hands unless something is done to keep the Belgian element in the ascendency, and it is believed that the best way to accomplish this, as the people will not go willingly, is to send convicts there. No doubt is felt at the same time that much opposition will have to be met in carrying out such a programme, humanitarian sentiment being influential in the direction of Belgium's penal in-

Austria's Embargo on American Pork.

VIENNA, Sept. 21 .- In an interview, to-day, with the United States minister to Austria, Col. Fred Grant, in regard to the reported intention of the Austrian government to remove the prohibition placed upon the importation of American pork, Colonel Grant said: "I have great hopes that American pork products will soon be admitted into Austria-Hungary, but no definite action can be taken until Parliament meets, later in the season. Spain's Misfortunes.

Maprin, Sept. 21 .- A hurricane, vesterday evening, has added to the damage done by the recent iloods to the unfortunate town of Consuegra. Many of the houses previously undernined, or otherwise weakened by the floods, collapsed, last night, beneath the force of the wind. A further feeling of gloom has spread throughout Spain by the announcement that a severe epidemic of influenza has broken out at Badajos, capital of the province of that name. There are already over two thousand severe cases of that disease in the city mentioned, and it is feared that the epidemic will spread over the kingdom.

Threw Stench-Balls at the Actors. Paris, Sept. 21 .- The third performance of "Lohengrin" was given to-night. Owing to a rain-storm there were few soldiers or police present, and the gathering around the operahouse was smaller than on the other two occasions. During the first act a few were ejected for throwing stench-balls from the gallery. After the occupants of one box had been expelled the performance was finished quietly, and was applauded. A score of brawlers were arrested.

Pneumatic Tubes in Cities and Letters Delivered at Every Man's Door.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—At the regular meeting this evening of the Manufacturers' Club, Postmaster-general Wanamaker delivered an address. He would like, he said, to see the pneumatic system introduced in the large cites, to have the mails taken off ships at Sandy Hook, and thus save an hour or two in delivery, and other improvements made. He would also, he said, like to see a system of free delivery through the whole country. One of the interesting things which he had tried was to take forty-one little villages in about thirty different States and arrange to give them one and two deliveries daily. Out of the forty-one thirty-four had produced sufficient increase of business to pay the whole cost and leaving quite a profit besides, amounting, perhaps, to about 25 per cent, If that could be spread throughout the country in the same ratio it would cost the government nothing, and the people would get the mails carried to their doors. The parade started at 8:30 and marched through the principal streets of the city, passing in review before the right reverend bishops at Music Hall, and was dismissed at Jefferson street. Along the line of march the German Catholic residences and many other places, both business and private, were profusely decorated and illuminated.

THOUSANDS IN ATTENDANCE. Continue to Be Popular.

Friends' Evangelistic Meetings at Plainfield Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PLAINFIELD, Ind., Sept 21 .- The afternoon services opened promptly at 2 o'clock to-day. Thousands were on the grounds Evangelist Douglas had charge at the tent Scott at the stand, and Strout in the house. At the tent Mr. Hathaway took for his theme, "We would see Jesus, the mightiest among the holy and the holiest among the mighty." J. H. Douglas preached on the demonstration of the spirit and power, taking for his text "Man's lost and totally depraved condition under the fall. His complete restoration through faith in Christ's atoning blood," was clearly presented, and the popular sins of the day strongly denounced. The dance, the club, progressive euchre, the drinking habits, impure literature and many popular books, which are sapping the very fountain of religious taith and life, were arraigned and held up in all their sinfulness. An adjourned meeting of the meeting for ministry and oversight was held this morning at 8 o'clock in the west room. William P. Haworth, of lows, felt drawn to read from the thirty-fourth chapter of Ezekiel, dwelling largely on the duties of those having charge of Christ's flock. Considerable time was spent in the discussion of the "pastoral question," which is claiming the earnest thought and action of most of the American vearly meetings at the ent time. During this hour at the tent a powerful outpouring of spirit was experienced, in which many scores were converted and sanctified among the young and The regular business session convened at 10 o'clock. The propositions for the setting up of a yearly meeting in Oregon in 1893 and the establishment of a biblical college were referred to a future joint session of the meeting. The appeal of Joseph Carter, of Bloomingdate Quarter, was decided in his favor. The "state of society" was reviewed by reading the queries and answers from the fifteen quarterly meetings. From these it is learned that during the past year all meetings have been regularly held, except a few omitted for satisfactory reasons, Members are generally punctual in attendance. With little exception, Friends give evidence that they are imbued with the love of Christ. They instruct their children in the principles of the Christian religion and bring them up in habits of industry, economy and simplicity, and they are encouraged to study the Holy Scriptures. With little exception. Friends are careful in regard to contracting debts and in making other engagements, and are careful of the reputation of others. When the members are overtaken in faults, timely measures were taken to restore such in the spirit of meakness and love. By the statistical report it was found that there are ninety-six meetings. 13,830 members, 2,307 families, 1,977 parts of families; non-members habitually attending, 1,171; recorded ministers, 154; males, 102 females, 52. The number of meetings without a minister is 25. BIGPARADE OF ODD-FELLOWS

Thousands of Members of the Order March the Streets of St. Louis.

Meeting of the Seventy-Second Encampment of the Sovereign Grand Lodge-68,000 Initiations in the Past Year. .

St. Louis, Sept. 21 .- St. Louis to-day welcomed one of the largest gatherings of Odd-fellows that has been assembled at any one time in the history of the order in this country. Every train, for the past three days, brought its load of cantons, lodges and detachments, until fully 50,000 to 60,000 visiting members and their families best thing a number of them could do was to go were in the city. The occasion of the gathering is the seventy-second grand encampment of the Sovereign Grand Lodge. The programme prepared for the entertainment was one of the most elaborate ever gotten up for a like occasion. "Old Sol," who had been projecting his rays upon the city for three or four days past with considerable violence, turned over a new leaf this morning, and hid himself behind a huge bank of clouds, to the great relief of the thousands of Odd-fellows who had resolved to take part in the grand parade, and later a cool. refreshing breeze sprang up, relieving in a great measure the oppressiveness of the atmosphere and giving new life to the sweltering thousands who were going hither and thither in the streets seeking the best vantage ground from which to view the procession. Arriving delegations this morning were met at the Union Depot and escorted to their assigned quarters by the reception committee, who had been so well drilled that not a delay occurred in the programme. Probably the largest detachment came from Springfield, Ill., the railroads having made a $1 fare for the round trip.

From early morning a more lively and animated scene could hardly be found than the down-town streets. Everywhere could be seen the golden-braided uniforms and the swaying purple plumes of the cantons and the regalias of the lodges. The district between Clark and Washington avenue and Fourth and Fourteenth streets was one mass of moving humanity. The sidewalks were blocked with members of the order, many of whom were renewing old and making new acquaintances, while the majority were bent on sight-seeing.

THE PARADE. Shortly after 1 o'clock the cantons and lodges that were assigned positions in the parade began to move towards the point where the line was to form, and took up their positions as designated in the programme. The various divisions formed on the streets running north and south across Lucas place, beginning at Seventeenth and up to Twenty-second street. Shortly after 2 o'clock the agreed-upon signal for the commencement of the march was given, and a platoon of mounted police emerged from Jefferson avenue, and proceeded in an easterly direction on Lucas to Fourteenth. The arrangements had been so perfect that the column was quickly formed, and as it proceeded the various divisions fell into line, and swelled the procession. There were nine divisions with their accompanying marshals and bands. The third and fourth were composed of Indiana and Illinois cantons, as follows:

Third-Brig.-Gen. W. H. Crocker and staff, com-manding Department of Illinois; Brig.-Gen. Brown and staff; band Canton Occidental, No. 1. Chicago; Canton Wildey, No. 4, Peoria, Ill. Canton Lincoin's Home, No. 43, Springfield Ill.; Canton Danville, No. 11, Danville, Ill.; Canton Decatur, No. 19, Decatur, Ill. Fourth-Band. Canton Indianapolis, No. !

Indianapolis; Canton Elwood, No. 33, Elwood, Ind. Unassigned cantons. The line of march was as follows: Or Lucas place from Jefferson avenue east to Fifteenth street, north to Washington avenue, east to Broadway, south to Chestnut, east to Fourth, south to Walnut, west to Fourth, north to Market, west to Sixth, north to Olive and west to the Exposition building, where the column broke up and the marching cantons, lodges and detachments returned to their respective headquarters for orders. To-morrow will decide which canton i to carry off the honors for the best military tactics, as the grand prize drill is to come off at the fair grounds in the afternoon. To-night the Exposition doors were opened to the Odd-lellows, and ception was held in the Music Hall. The building was packed to the doors, and locomotion was next to impossible. The main feature of the exercises at the Exposition was the conferring of the decoration of chivalry by Lieutenant-general Underwood upon several grand representatives, a number of distinguished members and several ladies of the Order of Rebekah.

GRAND ENCAMPMENT.

The seventy-second grand encampmen of the Sovereign Grand Lodge. I. O. O. F. was opened by Deputy Grand Sire Dr. C T. Campbell, in Masonic Hall, to-day, Grand Chaplain J. W. Venable, of New York, opened the proceedings with prayer, invoking divine blessing upon the order. The deputy grand sire made his report, which was received with applause. The report referred to the accident that had befallen the grand sire of the order, Charles M. Busby, of Kentucky, and to the circumstances that surrounded his own temporary accession to position. Past Grand Sire C. Underwood referred touchingly to the sickness of Grand Sire Busby and introduced a resolution of condolence. The motion was carried amid cheers. The standing committees were then appointed, and after these were concluded Grand Secretary Theodore A. Ross presented his annual report. Then Grand Treasurer Isaac A. Sheppard, of Philadelphia, reported the financial status of the order, and, commenting upon the figures, said they showed an increase in receipts. The number of initiations last year is shown to be 68,000. The increase in the United States and Canada during the past twelve months 18 37,000. The total membership at present is 672,339. The revenue for 1890-91 is $7,244. 227. The pecuniary benevolence distributed was $4,000,000. New grand lodges have been formed in Indian Territory, Cuba and Japan. He also referred to the growing popularity of the Degree of Rebekah, which now numbers 132,000 ladies. After some routine business the session adjourned to give the grand officers time to prepare for the parade.

BETTER DOG THAN HE THOUGHT. Valuable Setter Dog Makes a "Point" on the Colored Cook for Quails. Nashville Herald.

He had the reputation of being a faultess setter when I bought him, and I told my friends about his wonderful ability. I talked of him so much that they would begin on the subject themselves when they saw mecoming, as if by natural association. Finally they tried to depreciate the dog, and said they didn't believe it was anything like the setter I said it was, and asked me if I believed in him so much why I didn't show it up some time and let them judge of it themselves. I was thus led to inviting half a dozen out quail-hunting with me though I wasn't quite sure of the dog, after all. We went on a little camping tour, and found things in pretty fair condition for a good hunt. There was plenty of quail. For the first day the dog did very well, and I began to feel triumphant about him. We bagged dozens of birds and were jubilant. The next day, however, when we started out rather late in the morning, the dog was

FOR THE DEAF On account of not being able to see all who called on me during my previous visit in Indianapolis, I have arranged to be at the BATES HOUSE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 25. until 5 p. m., and would be pleased to consult with any who may be suffering from defective hearing,

H. A. WALES, Bridgeport, Conn. of no account whatever. We took Dick. the colored cook, along to help us to carry the game, and we couldn't get the dog away from his side. We tried every way in the world to urge him to begin operations, but he refused to do anything except sit and look pitifully at Dick. He tollowed him wherever he went, and if he stopped the dog would sit down and begin looking earnestly at him. Finally we sent one of the boys back to the tent to get some of the dead birds. I said I thought that would act as a reminder to the dog. The boy came back and said he couldn't find a bird. He had looked through our tent and the cook's tent, but there was not a sign of of one.

"Dick." I said, "what has become of those birds? "De pa'tridges, sah?"

"W'y, I thought you all had as much as you wanted, an' I took de rest.' "What did you do with them?" "I et dem, sah.

And that was what ailed the dog. Mr. Clarkson Cheerful.

Hon. J. S. Clarkson is looking in fine health, and is evidently in good spirits. "You can say there isn't a word of truth in any of the rumors connecting my name with a Cabinet office," he said. "They get me there daily in brint, but there is no foundation for it. Certainly I am delighted with Mr. Fassett's nomination, and I can inform you now be will be the next Governor of New York. He is able and popular, and his nomination has aroused great enthusisasm. People who were a little lukewarm before are priding themselves on the fact that they are Republicans. This is true, not only in New York, but all over the country. There are signs of encouragement everywhere, and the Republican pulse is beating strong."
